Political Gossip from Washington.

Washington, June 28. (Special Correspondence.) After two weeks of virtually "marking time" Congress has got once more down to business and started off on what looks like a long drawn out period of legislation. Nobody on either side of the chamber, or at either end of the capitol, can be found who thinks the session will end before the middle of August. Most of the predictions are about the first of September. Democrats admit that the long continued deliberations of Congress are absolutely due to the fact that the lawmakers are sitting here during the hot weather waiting for the President to mature his legislative program.

There is much feeling and bitterness among members of the House over the "gag rule" that was applied on the passage of the naval bill. It was rammed through the House at the behest of the administration, and 400 members of that body were powerless to offer any amendments, however meritorious. Under the "gag rule" adopted, only members of the committee were allowed to offer amendments. Even debate was shut off to a great extent and the steam roller was never used more effectively. The administration was so fearful it could not get the bill through before the Republican convention, that it took no chances and one of the most drastic rules in the history of Congress was passed in order to do the trick.

Republicans are greatly elated over the attempts of the Democrats to "get something" on Justice Hughes. Their campaign up to date has been dignified thus far by attacks on his whiskers and his judicial position. It is little wonder that the President has frowned on these methods. It merely shows the dilemma that the Democrats are in and that when it comes to criticising the Republican candidate they have been compelled to resort to things and to methods so silly as to savor of the kindergarten.

Representative Loren E. Wheeler of the twenty-first Illinois district came back from the Chicago convention most enthusiastic over the Republican outlook. Speaking of the situation he said: "I never met at one time so many people of my district and state as I did at Chicago, and the few days following the convention, I found everybody enthusiastic. Two-thirds of the Progressives of our state have already returned to the Republican fold. Many independents who voted for Wilson four years ago will align themselves with our party. We will carry Illinois by more than 100,000 plurality. Hughes and Fairbanks will be elected and the House will be overwhelmingly Republican."

"Coming back from the Chicago convention, I got off the train and talked with a number of railroad men in three different cities relative to our ticket," said a Republican member of Congress. "Every one of the men I talked with said they were going to vote for Hughes and Fairbanks. They stated the ticket suited them perfectly and that it would receive the votes of the laboring men of the country generally."

Two well known Democrats of the House were conversing a few days since as to the political outlook in the country. Both were talking very earnestly and seriously. One was overheard to say to the other: "Any visions we may have had of a walkover have been dispelled. The Republicans have nominated the strongest ticket that could have been named and I confess I am fearful of the outcome. We are up against a mighty serious proposition."

June 26. FROM PALESTINE.

Clear Skin Comes from Within.

It is foolish to think you can gain a good clear complexion by the use of face powder. Get at the root of the trouble and thoroughly cleanse the system with a treatment of Dr. King's New Life Pills. Gentle and mild in action, do not gripe, yet they relieve the liver by their action on the bowels. Good for young, adults and aged. Go after a clear complexion today. 25c at your druggist.

Gettysburg.

John Clark, a former resident, now of Lafount, Ind., gave this place a business call last week.

C. J. Miller and family enjoyed the hospitality of Russel Witwer and wife yesterday.

The fourth quarterly meeting of this circuit will be held here the 9th prox., at which time it is expected to have an all-day social time, during which eats will be served at the church instead of at the homes. This is a new departure from the usual custom and it is hoped the novelty of it will insure its success.

Harley, son of Charles Dunevant, died yesterday after a lingering illness of tuberculosis, aged a couple of months above fifteen years. He was somewhat abnormal in his growth, having attained the height of six feet at that early age. Interment tomorrow afternoon at this place.

P. B. Miller and wife enjoyed the favor of a ride with J. M. Moul and family to Pleasant Hill yesterday afternoon.

Our streets were given a dust down oiling today, which will relieve us from the annoyance of dust for the summer.

I. F. Brown and wife entertained B. F. Coppock and wife of Piqua, and others, yesterday.

Painters finished the spread of paint on P. B. Miller's residence and business house last Saturday, which seems to have added considerable in external appearance.

On next Sunday night Rev. J. O. Hillery will preach in our Presbyterian church. Subject, "Mothers," but it is not understood that the occasion will be for women only. Men and fathers are invited to be present, as it is as much for them as for mothers.

Our city board of education, at a meeting held last week, employed teachers for next winter's schools, retaining only one of last winter's corps, others are all new.

Between the birds and other pickers, the cherry crop has very largely disappeared from the trees.

Our merchants have established the custom of keeping open of nights until a late hour. While custom is hard to change and ought not to be changed only for good and sufficient reasons, it seems to me this is one that ought and could be changed with real benefit to every person. There is no reason whatever why merchants should furnish a lounging place for persons whose real abiding place at that hour should be home and there take their rest and care for the comforts and enjoyment of their families. May the home be planned so that it may be said

"Of all the spots by heaven blest The dearest place is home."

'Tis there the fond hearts love to rest

And never love to roam."

Make it the rule that all business places be closed no later than 8 o'clock on every night except Saturday and at that time no later than 9 o'clock and everybody will be the better for it. Let it be done.

Astronomical Data for July.

During July the evening sky will be almost entirely free from planets. Venus comes into inferior conjunction with the sun on the third, and Saturn on the twelfth, while Jupiter is too far in the east to be seen except in the early morning. There are, however, two eclipses, one of the moon on the 14th, which is followed by one of the sun on the 29th.

A partial eclipse of the moon July 14, visible at Washington; the beginning visible generally in Africa, southwestern Europe, the Atlantic Ocean, North America except the more western portions, South America and the South Pacific Ocean. The circumstances of the eclipse are as follows: Moon enters the penumbra July 14, 8:18 p.m.; moon enters the shadow July 14, 9:19 p.m.; middle of the eclipse July 14, 10:46 p.m.; moon leaves the shadow July 15, 12:12 a.m.; moon leaves the penumbra July 15, 1:14 a.m. About 80 per cent of the moon will be covered at the maximum. The times given are central standard times.

The annular eclipse of the sun on July 29 is visible only in the South Pacific and Indian Oceans, the central line passing through Australia. The apparent diameters of the sun and moon are so nearly the same that the varying distances of the moon from the earth causes at times the moon's apparent diameter to be less than that of the sun, so that when, as at the time of an eclipse, the two bodies are seen directly in line the sun will appear the larger of the two, and hence will fail to entirely cover up the sun and the moon will appear as a black body surrounded by a brilliant ring or annulus of light. Such eclipses are called annular.—Ohio State University News.

The Real Voice of the People.

Warren (O.) Chronicle—An instance of time and talent wasted was in being a delegate to the St. Louis convention. It was all fixed before the convention hall doors opened.

Logansport (Ind.) Tribune—The demonstration for President Wilson lasted only 17 minutes. It was kind of the President to order only a 17-minute ovation. He might have ordered the delegates to yell for an hour.

Memphis (Mo.) Reveille—The nomination of Charles Evans Hughes as the Republican candidate for the presidency is the most remarkable case of the office seeking the man ever exhibited in American politics.

Lawrence (Kans.) Journal—World—A non-partisan ticket can always be distinguished by the omission of Republican names.

Abilene (Kans.) Reflector—There is always discussion about what Kansas does with its money. If President Wilson's tax on motor cars, tractors, and gasoline goes into effect, about $3,000,000 of Kansas' income will be accounted for next year.

Portland (Ore.) Spectator—The conditions and aspirations alike of this country demand the defeat of the man whose strong-willed weakness and feeble obstinacy have exposed the nation to the contempt of the pirates of Europe and the bandits of Mexico.

Warren (O.) Chronicle—As goes Fairbanks so goes Indiana being the usual experience, the Hoosier state can be expected to be in the Republican column in the late fall.

Bloomfield (Ia.) Republican—Hughes was the choice of the people. He was not a candidate, did not seek the honor, but recognized the right of the people to summon, and that "it is my paramount duty to respond."

Charles Evans Hughes—"I stand for an Americanism that knows no ulterior purpose, for a patriotism that is single and complete. Whether native or naturalized, of whatever race or creed, we have but one country, and we do not for an instant tolerate any division of allegiance."

Bound Brook (N. J.) Chronicle—Charles Evans Hughes did not seek the task imposed upon him. * * * He accepted it as Lincoln accepted the call to save the country from division and disintegration at a time when the services of a man of extraordinary stature were needed for that purpose.

Lead (S. D.) Call—The nomination of Charles Evans Hughes for president of the United States by the Republican National convention, accompanied by the practical endorsement of that nomination by the Progressive convention and Theodore Roosevelt, forecasts certain Republican victory in November. It means a uniting of the Grand Old Party.
